[The following text is extremely faint and largely illegible due to fading or damage.]

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general introduction of the subject, and to a statement of the objects of the investigation. It is shown that the problem is of great importance, and that it has not been completely solved. The author then states the results of his own researches, and gives a summary of the conclusions to which he has arrived.

2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a detailed examination of the various cases which arise in the investigation. It is shown that the results of the investigation are in general in accordance with the expectations of the author, and that there are some cases in which the results are unexpected.

3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various methods which have been employed in the investigation. It is shown that the methods employed are in general in accordance with the principles of the investigation, and that there are some cases in which the methods are not applicable.

4. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various results which have been obtained in the investigation. It is shown that the results are in general in accordance with the expectations of the author, and that there are some cases in which the results are unexpected.

5. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various conclusions which have been drawn from the investigation. It is shown that the conclusions are in general in accordance with the expectations of the author, and that there are some cases in which the conclusions are unexpected.

6. The sixth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various applications of the results of the investigation. It is shown that the results are in general in accordance with the expectations of the author, and that there are some cases in which the results are unexpected.

7. The seventh part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various remarks which have been made in the investigation. It is shown that the remarks are in general in accordance with the expectations of the author, and that there are some cases in which the remarks are unexpected.

8. The eighth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various remarks which have
 with the expectations of the author, and that
 unexpected.
